

CAREER · 7 MIN READ

Considering a Career Change? Start Here.

Explore new paths, assess your transferable skills, and make a smart, confidence-building transition.

Audit what you actually want

- List the parts of past jobs that energized you — and the parts that drained you.
- Separate "what I am good at" from "what I want to do next."
- Write a one-sentence vision: "In 12 months I want to be..."

Map transferable skills

- Group your experience into 4–6 capabilities (e.g., stakeholder communication, data analysis, ops).
- For each capability, write one concrete proof point.

Validate with 5 conversations

- Find 5 people doing the work you are considering.
- Ask: what do you actually do day-to-day, what surprised you, what would you tell a beginner?

Build a 90-day bridge

- Pick one course or project that proves your new direction.
- Update LinkedIn headline to reflect the pivot before applying.

Apply with a narrative

- Cover letter answers: why this field, why now, why you.
- Reframe your resume around the new target, not your old title.